

Contents

		Handout
Introduction	iv
Part I: From New Frontier to Great Society	1
1 The New Muckraking: Prelude to Change	3	1
2 The Superpowers and Cuba	7	2
3 Foreign Affairs on the New Frontier	11	3
4 Civil Disobedience in a Democracy	17	4
5 The Road from Brown	23	5
6 The Poverty Culture	29	6
7 Johnson's Vision of the Great Society	37	7
8 Two Societies—Separate and Unequal	43	8
9 From Black Pride to Black Power	49	9
Part II: The Vietnam Experience	57
10 Escalating American Involvement in Vietnam	59	10
11 Views of the Vietnam Resisters	67	11
12 1968: A Watershed	73	12
13 The Vietnam Legacy	77	13
Part III: Watergate and the Presidency	83
14 1968: A Divisive Election	85	14
15 Man on the Moon: For Good or Ill?	91	15
16 The Imperial Presidency	97	16
17 Watergate	103	17
18 The Lessons of Watergate	111	18
19 Gerald Ford: Unfinished Business	117	19
20 The Widening Demand for Equality	125	20
Part IV: Carter and Reagan: A Study in Contrasts	131
21 1976: "Outsiders" vs. "Insiders"	133	21
22 The Dilemma of Human Rights	143	22
23 Waging Peace: Camp David	149	23
24 A Nation Held Hostage	153	24
25 Reaganomics: The Supply-Side Approach	161	25
26 Election '84: The Year of the Polls	167	26
27 Television: Issues vs. Image	171	27
28 Evaluating the Presidents	177	28
Part V: Seeking New Directions	181
29 The "Top 40" of Civil Rights Leadership	183	29
30 The Future of Nuclear Power	191	30
31 Education at Risk	197	31
32 Television: Wonderland or Wasteland?	203	32
33 Why the ERA Failed	209	33
34 A Generation of Progress?	217	34
35 "Prison of the Present"	223	35
Acknowledgments	229	